

This is brought to you to further cardiology in Africa

INVITATION TO APPLY
AHA VISITING INTERNATIONAL PROFESSORSHIP AWARD

American Heart Association.

The American Heart Association recognizes the need to continue broadening research experiences for many scientists, including those beyond U.S. borders. This is particularly important in light of the growing recognition that many critical medical conditions can be best solved using a global research approach. Therefore, the AHA is piloting a novel program to bring internationally based scientists to the U.S. for scientific exchange.

The AHA's Visiting International Professorship Award is a novel program to bring internationally based scientists to the United States (U.S.) for one week to foster scientific exchange. The goal is to expand research experiences and collaborative opportunities for both the awarded Visiting Professor and their U.S.-based host in research topics that align with the AHA's mission. Proposals from all non-US institutions will be considered, and proposals for investigators in low- or middle-income countries are particularly encouraged. Apply by Wednesday, February 7, 2024

Applicants to the AHA's Visiting International Professorship Award program will submit one application jointly and will be listed as Co-PIs. The U.S.-based host investigator will create the application in Proposal Central and will include the name and contact information of the visiting international scholar. The visiting international scholar will receive an email invitation to join the proposal. The U.S.-based investigator's institution will administer the funds.

Searching for a U.S. Collaborator? Use the Professional Volunteer Search on your AHA Membership dashboard.

Click to Apply

Connect with PASCAR here